

DEMOCRATIZING SCIENCE

The Political Roots of the Public
Engagement Agenda

Paola Mattei

First published in Great Britain in 2023 by

Bristol University Press
University of Bristol
1–9 Old Park Hill
Bristol
BS2 8BB
UK

t: +44 (0)117 374 6645
e: bup-info@bristol.ac.uk

Details of international sales and distribution partners are available at bristoluniversitypress.co.uk

© Bristol University Press 2023

The digital PDF and EPUB versions of this title are available Open Access and distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution–NonCommercial–NoDerivatives 4.0 International licence (<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/>) which permits reproduction and distribution for non-commercial use without further permission provided the original work is attributed.

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

ISBN 978-1-5292-2395-8 hardcover
ISBN 978-1-5292-2396-5 ePub
ISBN 978-1-5292-2397-2 OA PDF

The right of Paola Mattei to be identified as author of this work has been asserted by her in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

All rights reserved: no part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise without the prior permission of Bristol University Press.

Every reasonable effort has been made to obtain permission to reproduce copyrighted material. If, however, anyone knows of an oversight, please contact the publisher.

The statements and opinions contained within this publication are solely those of the author and not of the University of Bristol or Bristol University Press. The University of Bristol and Bristol University Press disclaim responsibility for any injury to persons or property resulting from any material published in this publication.

Bristol University Press works to counter discrimination on grounds of gender, race, disability, age and sexuality.

Cover design: Nicky Borowiec
Front cover image: Getty Images/peepo
Bristol University Press uses environmentally responsible print partners.
Printed and bound in Great Britain by CPI Group (UK) Ltd,
Croydon, CR0 4YY

To Emilia, Maria and Paolo

Democracy is more than a form of government;
it is primarily a mode of associated living.

John Dewey, Democracy and Education: An Introduction to the Philosophy of Education, 1926

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1 Introduction: Science and Democracy	1
A crisis of public trust in science	6
Knowledge systems in a populist era	10
Overview of the book	13
2 Public Engagement: Concept, Practice and Rhetoric	17
Public engagement: a slippery concept	20
Conclusions	26
3 The Entrepreneurial State	28
The New Public Management	30
A critique of New Public Management	34
The case of the adoption of New Public Management in the 1990s in Italy	37
Citizens' Charter of Education	45
Conclusions	47
4 The Engaged State: Bringing Citizens In	49
Citizen science	50
Collaborative governance in the new millennium and citizens as co-producers	52
The ecological citizen	54
Youth public engagement with sustainability	58
Conclusions	60

5	Working with Schools and the Case of Ecological Citizenship	62
	Education for sustainable development in Italy	64
	Adoption of mandatory civic education in schools	65
	Operational concerns from the street level	67
	Discussion and analysis	71
	Conclusions	73
6	Universities and Civic Engagement	75
	The ‘old’ universities and their social embeddedness	77
	The ‘new’ entrepreneurial university	78
	Higher education landscape reforms: the marketization agenda	82
	The ‘engaged’ university	86
	Public universities at a crossroads	93
	Conclusions	96
7	Rethinking the Public Scientist	97
	Citizen science	98
	Public engagement: the concept	99
	Public engagement: the contradictions	101
	Public engagement: the benign rhetoric	102
	Notes	105
	References	107
	Index	125

Acknowledgements

I am hugely indebted to many colleagues at the Department of Social and Political Sciences, University of Milan, for their continual guidance and encouragement to pursue this project throughout the past five years. I am very much grateful to my students, research assistants, and their enthusiasm. I wish to thank very many colleagues at the University of Milan for the conversations and intellectual inspirations. They would be too many to mention them individually. Thanks go to all the colleagues and members of the Public Engagement National Committee which carried out from 2020 until 2022 the Italian Research Assessment Framework in Italy (ANVUR VQR). At its early stages, this book owes a lot to friends and colleagues at the University of Oxford, who encouraged me to explore the civic role of universities.

This research has been supported by research funding from the Strategic Funding Priorities of the University of Milan, and research funding from the 4EU+ Alliance of European Universities.

I wish to acknowledge the commissioning editors, Philippa Grand and Paul Stevens, at Bristol University Press for their commitment. Special thanks to four anonymous reviewers who have been intellectually generous and offered detailed suggestions on the final manuscript. I would not have been able to write this book without the patience and love of my family.

